

What else can we do with XML?

- XML can store data
- XML is effectively a database format and so data can be extracted and manipulated
- We can use computer tools that will edit XML.
- We can present information from XML

Publishing with XML

- As long as we consider a taxonomy for our content we can provide defined elements for the content
- A taxonomy for a book list may be:
 - Books
 - book
 - title
 - author
 - ISBN
- Style (or how we want it to look) is completely separate, so we should use meaningful words rather than words that represent style
